Governor, an individual I have known for several years came up to me and asked if I would give you a message. He is so appreciate of you wanting to help Alaskans. He knows many people who are really hurting and it gives hope when someone cares for them and is looking out for them. Thank you! God bless. Tom

Not sure how/why last year the decision was made to have the big "to-do" press conf to announce vetoes - don't want to do that this year. It sent a message of drama and political gamesmanship. (Perhaps we did it that way last bc it was the new admin's first budget?)

So this year, tho I see it's been scheduled as another press conf, I won't be standing at a podium telling lawmakers in dramatic form what I just chopped from their budget.

Instead, we'll release it with very solid and positive messaging in a good statement, minus the spotlight.

We have the AGIA spotlight that overshadows vetoes this week. In studying preliminary AGIA work product the past few evenings, it's very, very apparent the necessity to focus on that for alaska's future versus getting sucked into veto drama that critics would like to see distract from AGIA this week.

Sounds good. That worked well when we did SB256 vetoes. KJR
